Calling all my senses
I can't see or taste or feel you anymore
And every day I'm calling on my inner strength
To fight for something once worth fighting for

Maybe it's life in the real world
Maybe it's all been my fault

What if I go, what if I leave
What if I show you how you're breaking me
And I know whatever I say
I'll still be thinking what if I stay

Staring at the stars I make a wish
That I could travel back in time
I lie awake just looking at your face
And I remember how you used to look at mine

Maybe it's life in the real world
Maybe it's all been your fault

What if I go, what if I leave
What if I show you how you're breaking me
And I know whatever I say
I'll still be thinking what if I stay
What if I'm sorry, what if I love you

What if I go, what if I leave
What if I show you how you're breaking me
And I know whatever I say
I'll still be thinking what if I stay
