(Eddie Curtis)

Hello, oh hello darling, have you missed me, you have
Are you telling me true, oh, that's nice Well, why don't you come to my house
And talk me more of that sweet talk, uh darling, hello, hello, hello.

Oh, he's a telephone lover, a long distance Romeo
He's a telephone lover, a long distance Romeo
But when I say come over baby, he says I gotta go.

I dig his warm conversation when he's talking on the phone
I dig his warm conversation when he's talking on the phone
But het gets cool, mighty cool when I say come on home.

Oh well, his voice gets me so excited
I get goose pimples everywhere
But when I tell him that he's invited
All of a sudden that man ain't there.

He's a telephone lover, a long distance Romeo
He's a telephone lover, a long distance Romeo
But it's my dream to have him and somehow I'll make it so.

(Now talk me some of that sweet talk, honey.)

--- Instrumental ---

Well, well, well, he's a telephone lover, a long distance
Romeo
He's a telephone lover, a long distance Romeo
But it's my dream to have him and somehow I'll make it so...
