It always end the same,
I gave you all my heart to watch you throw it away.
Throw it away.
It takes a toll on my soul,
Because I'm starting to believe the lies you strung with red,
Is it all just a game?

One day I'll heal and I'll be covered in scars
And never forget why did it all fell apart.
When you finally came clean about the lies and the games you played from the start!
It's like every second we spent together is always on repeat in the back of my mind.
What was I thinking when I gave you my life?
You knew it would end, you knew this would die.
You'll never find another one like me.

I think I'd give you another chance if you deserved one.
I think I have room in my heart, but I simply reserved
none.
I let you beg on your knees for forgiveness at last, but
your just a mistake.
Please give me my life back.

You made me so insecure and unsure of everything that I thought was real.
I just wish I could rewind and go back to a time
Where I knew what it was like to feel.
I hope something, somewhere ruins you the way you ruined me.
I just want you know how it feels.
I want you too see it's like my heart was made to be broken.

Why can't I let go?
Now that I'm sober I just need you to know

I think I'd give you another chance if you deserved one.
I think I have room in my heart, but I simply reserved
none.
I let you beg on your knees for forgiveness at last, but

your just a mistake.
Please give me my life back.
Give me my life back.

They say it's better to have loved than never at all.
But I can't seem to find how it could have been thrown at the wall
I'm not sure If can stand above this taller.
Tossing, turning, at the edge.
I thought I'd be over you but no.
With all you've put me through I'm full of regret.
I wish I could just forget somehow.

You'll never find another one like me.

I think I'd give you another chance if you deserved one.
I think I have room in my heart, but I simply reserved
none.
I let you beg on your knees for forgiveness at last, but
your just a mistake.
Please give me my life back.
