PETER THE METER READER

Meri Wilson

(Dr. Demento 25th anniversary tape)

Note: this is a follow-up to TELEPHONE MAN

Here we go again

I was lying on my back porch just a-getting some sun
Had my hair done up in pigtails had my swimming suit on I was just about asleep when there came a shadow over me

I opened up my eyes to peek and what did I see-ee
There was a man what a man looking down on me Tall dark and handsome, six foot three
There was a look in his eyes that was telling me He knew that there was something that he wanted to see

He said "Hi my name is Peter
And I'm here to read your meter
I'd like to see your kilowatts
Could you take me to your box"
I didn't have the slightest notion where that box could be

But I said to Peter won't you follow me
We went upstairs downstairs inside and out
I just loved having Peter follow me about
He said "Hey what's with you fox
Can't you take me to your box
I came here to see your meter
They call me Peter the meter reader"
By the time he found my meter it was a quarter past four

And he said to watch my heater as he was walking through my door
Every single kilowatt was a-looking just fine
And he'd be coming back to see them in another month's ti-i-ime

So now I'm waiting yes I'm waiting so patiently
To have my sweet sweet Peter read my meter for me
Maybe I should tell you so you'll understand That Peter used to be my telephone man Singing hey-laddy-laddy hey-laddy-laddy hey-laddy-laddy

Get it any way you can
I've never done anything like this before...well...
