It was all before the end of the war the we made a pact
as brothers
Never say die. never leave a man behind, so we can go home as fathers

Stray from the knife, it was never worth our lives,
So let it go, take it slow

And put your hands where I can see them
Put your hands where I can see them
Put your hands where I can see them
Cuz this ain't a test this is war as we all know

We could smell the blood with our noses in the mud.
No white flag but you were still retreating.
Live for the fight, pressing onward rain or shine.
We shall prevail as long as we believe.

Stray from the knife, it was never worth our lives,
So let it go, take it slow

And put your hands where I can see them
Put your hands where I can see them
Put your hands where I can see them
Cuz this ain't a test this is war as we all know
