

Conor Oberst "Lenders In the Temple"

Visit "Lenders In the Temple" on MotoLyrics.com

A short delay,
the parrot blues
Little voices mimic you
It's not so hard to make that sound

So watch your back, the Ides of March
Cut your hair like Joan of Arc Disguise your will They'll find you out

And when they do...
Look out

There's money lenders inside the temple
That circus tiger's gonna break your heart
Something so wild turned into paper
If I loved you, well that's my fault

A bitch in heat, the alpha male
Not something she'd ever tell
Except when she got deathly high

And out it came,
like summer rain
Washed the cars and everything Felt clean for just a little while

A telethon...
We drove down

The starving children they ain't got no mother
There's pink flamingos living in the mall
I'd give a fortune to your infomercial
If somebody would just take my call take my call

take my call

Hello,
patterns in my mind now moving slow

Sorrow all across the surface roads
Smoothing out the edges of the stone
The lights are out, where'd everybody go?
Alone

Erase yourself and you'll be free
Mendula destroyed by the sea
All we are is colored sand

So pay to ride the ferris wheel Smile, all that you can feel is gratitude for what has been

Cause it did not... happen

There's money lenders inside the temple
That circus tiger's gonna break my heart
Something so wild turned into paper
If you loved me, then that's your fault

There's money lenders inside the temple
This crystal city's gonna fall apart
When all their power turns into vapor
If I miss you well that's my fault that's my fault
that's my fault

Visit Conor Oberst page on MotoLyrics.com, to get more lyrics and videos.