Verse 1:

I caught your secret code
It was traveling low beneath the conversation
But I've had my nose to the floor
Ever since I caught wind of your motivation
And how you think you're sneaking up on me
Creeping up on me

Chorus:

How the tides have changed for you and me
Our story has reversed so perfectly
Now you're here on your knees
And irony never felt so sweet
I can taste your heart between my teeth
You're crawling back to me
Oh, you should be

Verse 2:

I saw you move in slow
You were slithering so in all your desperation
But I've had my eye on the door
And I won't fall prey to your orchestration
And how you think you're sneaking up on me
Creeping up on me

Bridge:

Once upon a time I tried to convince you
Not to throw my love away
You were so unkind, I stayed inside and
Cried the night into the day
The tables have turned, and I have learned
What I wish I'd known so long ago
Love isn't blind, it wears disguises
