

Michael Sweet "Rain"

Visit "Rain" on MotoLyrics.com

(Romans 12:12 & Romans 5:3-5)

Breathing, once was so easy

Torn between the sky and the water

That climbs up and drowns me in my sleep

Remember, the moon caught in the trees

Stars would fall and dance from branch to branch

And watch me believe, summer follows fall

CHORUS

When I'm watching the Rain, melt my window away

Will you hold me here in your arms

When I'm drinking my pain, and I'm thinking God's late

Will you hold me here in the night

Constants, always change their mind

All is sublime then I blink and I find

That it's writ in Rain

But after, oh it is the sweetest smell of spring

Years and years before I could see past the storm

But it's harder now, believing that summer follows fall

CHORUS

When I'm watching the Rain, melt my window away

Will you hold me here in your arms

When I'm drinking my pain, and I'm thinking God's late

Will you hold me here in the night

REPEAT CHORUS

Visit Michael Sweet page on MotoLyrics.com, to get more lyrics and videos.