On the street it never changes
There's a chill in the air
Icy people, empty faces
Not a word, not a soul who cares

Do you give up?
Have you given in to the lie that a heart never changes?
Don't be fooled by what you see there
Another man with another case of

One restless heart, who never could find love
Too many hurts to reach out again
How can he know? Love still wants to find him
One restless shell of a man

In a moment his life could be new
Just a moment and love could break through
Oh finally some place to start
For a man with a restless heart

Why the fear then, why the worry
Why the walls holding love inside?
When you're needed in the fury
In the fighting to save men's lives

Don't you give up?
Don't be giving in to the lie that a heart never changes
If you reach out God'll reach in Bring an end to another case of

One restless heart, who never could find love
Too many hurts to reach out again
How can he know? Love still wants to find him
One restless shell of a man

In a moment his life could be new
Just a moment and love could break through
Oh finally some place to start
For a man with a restless heart

One restless heart, one restless heart
One restless heart, one restless heart

He's got to know that love still can find him
Love can reach any man, don't look away

In a moment his life could be new
Just a moment and love could break through
Oh finally some place to start
For a man with a restless heart

Oh never a stranger again
Love has saved a restless man
Finally some place to start
For a man with a restless heart

Oh yeah
Our love has saved a restless man
Finally some place to start
For a man with a restless heart
