Other arms have held me before your time
Other lips have thrilled me before your time
Other eyes have seen the light
You see in my eyes tonight.
Oh, but darling, that was long before your time.

Other hearts have been broken before your time Unkind words were spoken before your time
Other ears have heard me
Say the things I say to you today
But darling that was long before your time.

Before you came along I sang this same old song before
The melody was born when we walk right through
love's door
The words I love you came but I just couldn't sing that line
Oh, but darling, that was long before your time.

Before you came along I sang this same old song

The melody was born when we walk right through
love's door
The words I love you came but I just couldn't sing that
line
Oh, but darling, that was long before your time...
