I see him everyday in the same old haunting way
Of his hiding place wearing his same disguise
And this hurting me to know he's hurting someone I love so
But I still see him through the hurt in your eyes.

You'll never talk about him and I'll never let to know About the one you must have loved so much so long ago
You're wanting to forget him and I know how your heart tries
But I still see him through the hurt in your eyes.

--- Instrumental ---

You've painted me his picture with words you couldn't speak
And I've seen his reflection in a mem'ry on your cheek
But I still see him through the hurt in your eyes.

Yes, I still see him through the hurt in your eyes...
