You wouldn't forget it
I told you that it would only leave a bitter taste
Now look what you've started
There's no use pretending it's any other way
You say the finest things in life are free
Like me and all those little insecurities

Like a ship lost at sea, so low, rescue me
You know I never wanna let u down
Like two storms that collide, the thorn in your side
You know I never wanna let u down

Take all that you can now
I hope that you've learned to how stand on your own
Though it's true, that I knew
You were always better off that way
