

Midnight Choir

"Don't turn out the light"

Visit "Don't turn out the light" on MotoLyrics.com

"Woke up this morning riding on a homebound train pocket full of memories Thinking about the good old days bought a bottle of wine with the last dime to my name jumped an Oslo freight running through the pouring rain

Oh,mama,don't turn out the light
there's a shadow on the moon outside
keep it burning in the window to guide my way tonight
Don't lock the door,I'm coming home for sure I've missed the old home place
I am never gonna leave anymore

This side of the city
I felt the cold wind blow
More than a heartache it chilled me to the bone

I squeeze my empty bottle and the tears began to flow It slipped right through my fingers with a few more miles to go...

Oh,mama,don't turn out the light
there's a shadow on the moon outside
keep it burning in the window to guide my way tonight
Don't lock the door,I'm coming home for sure
I've missed the old home place
I am never gonna leave anymore..."

Visit Midnight Choir page on MotoLyrics.com, to get more lyrics and videos.