"Black Room"

As I walk into a black room
I can feel the relieve (sic)
A million rays of light
Have worn out my skin

Oh and as I shut the door
Silence is veiling me
Veiling me finally
A room so dark
Couldn't tell if it's white
It's darker than the deepest shade of black night

Where's it to be found
Oh take me into the black
Where's it to be found
The black room

The road to ruin is paved
Oh crumbling crooks
I chase my decay

When you walk through minds
And up to the spirits you rise
When there is no sound
And you can feel the pull of time
Your body is a crook that must be
Left behind

Where's it to be found
Take me into the black room
