Alone doesn't hurt anymore
The pain's too strong to feel it
Alone doesn't work anymore
There's no one left to heal it
If I turn my back on it all
And walk away from this place
Then maybe someone will find
These dried-up tears on my face

PRE-CHORUS (alternating lines)
Poor thing (I can show them all)
She could have been so
Pretty so thin (What they never could see)
She could have been so
Smart so rich (Once they watch my fall)
She could have been so
Loved so blessed (They'll finally notice me)
She could have been but
She never got a grip (If I just lose my grip)

CHORUS
Too many voices
None of them mine
They're far too loud
To hear my pain inside
If I could leave this world
Leave it all behind
Would they all shut up
And watch my Suicide...Ride?

Faith doesn't come from inside
You've got to go and get it
Faith doesn't stay by your side
You've got to not regret it
If I look my faith in the eyes
And let my tears flow with grace
Then maybe someday I'll find
A life for me to embrace

PRE-CHORUS (alternating lines)
Poor thing (I can show them all)

She could have been so
Pretty so thin (What they never could see)
She could have been so
Smart so rich (Once they watch my fall)
She could have been so
Loved so blessed (They'll finally notice me)
She could have been but
She never got a grip (If I just lose my grip)

CHORUS

Too many voices
None of them mine
They're far too loud
To hear my pain inside
If I could leave this world
Leave it all behind
Would they all shut up
And watch my Suicide...Ride?
