So sweet the kiss you gave to me
So warm the look bestowed on me
So simple the fragrance when I think of you
The three together help me through
This fuddled world 'Cause I lost myself but I found you instead
So please don't share me
With all the memories that shine through your head
May reflect old dreams
Ah, ah, ah
Inside my heart, your season grows
It springs to life on every bow
Look at October, look to the falling leaves
They prepare their hearts for your screams, mm, mm
'Cause I lost myself but I found you instead
So please don't share me
With all the memories that shine through your head
May reflect old dreams
I lost myself but I found you instead
So please don't share me
Ah, ah, ah
'Cause we hold our losses when you move here
And we place our love at a distance out of fear
Why do I continue to feel this way?
I'm right here now
I'm wrong, so true that we can't see ourselves
In a world that should be love
'Cause I lost myself but I found you instead
So please don't share me
With all the memories that shine through your head
May reflect old dreams
'Cause I lost myself but I found you instead
So please don't share me
With all the memories that shine through your head, oh
Ah, ah, ah (3x)
