Guilt I see you looking back at me
Face of mine not what I want to see
It lies, I lose, can't shake this face of mine
Take back the faith I put in me, in me
Momentary secondary testimony wasting away
Outward sense of faith imposed to cover shameful ways
Hypocrisy inflamed
Revelation of destruction not enough for retribution
Self fixation won't let go Benefit from grace denied through selfish acts unsanctified
I've been born blind
Faith restoring debt that's charged to me
By the man for me hung on a tree
His life, I choose, narrow path I follow
Take back the faith I put in me, in me
