This is the day,
The day of my life
I am about to grow old.

The taste of her chewing gum still in my mouth
I follow her wherever she goes.
Wonder if she'd ever reckon me
If I was part of a crowd

If I threw you a smile would it open your eyes
Would you have to look twice

I wonder if she knows that she takes all my time
Wonder if she thinks that I'm pretty
I wonder some times, did I do alright?
And how I know what she'll wear almost every day

Every day... every day... every day...

If I were to ask out one of your friends

Just to find out where you'd go
Would I stand a chance if I asked you to dance?
Would you like me or would you let me know?

If we were to meet in a dark dead-end street
Would you think of me as a threat?
Would you feel tense, would you call up your friends?
Would you kiss me out of my breath?

I wonder if she knows that she takes all my time
Wonder if she thinks that I'm pretty
I wonder some times, did I do alright?
And how I know what she'll wear almost every day

Every day... every day... every day...
