I'm not going to leave you,
Not for good
You are the real one
And I am your fool

Fooled by the night
And drinking the poison
Enough to get right,
Then to freeze frame vision

Freeze frame vision
Freeze frame vision
I only see in

Gone for days in the country
And I am alone
This old wood stove
Cooks my food and keeps me warm

A dog in the night
Is singing his song
And I'm drinking the poison
Until my visions gone

Freeze frame vision
Freeze frame vision
I only see in

Her heels click on the sidewalk
Adding tempo to the sound
Of the city living hard
This ain't no one bar town
Holding a new hand
She don't know his last name
She doesn't need the anguish or the pain

He had a place that was just up the street
If she was down for the walk
He had a view that couldn't be beat
And the looks and the talk

He put the right music on
That music led her astray
Touching her just like he should
But she was heading that way

Moving through her tangent
Couldn't breath couldn't talk
Falling in lust with an accident
When sometimes time seems to stop

Freeze frame vision
Freeze frame vision
I only see in

The morning's barely breathing
When I awake
I need something
To kill this dull ache
Have you been sleeping
Or is it still your town?
Are you drinking the poison
And phasing me out?

Freeze frame vision
Freeze frame vision
I only see in

She's getting close
And he doesn't know
