I've watched you
Live on your esthetics
Your fake tits, they're fake you know
The answer's in the problem
But the question's your soul
Until you discover that your comfort
Has a price
Well you'll be left alone
This you better realize

When the world explodes
You'll be light years away from home
We all get cold if you're cold
If the world explodes
And you're not where you want to go
You're holding on to what's wrong

You're loosening your grip
So we're gonna have to take a trip
It only takes a minute if you want to live
You've got to put your pride down
Before it tears your insides out
It only takes a minute to travel worlds away
In a day

When the world explodes
You'll be light years away from home
We all get cold if you're cold
If the world explodes
And you're not where you want to go
You're holding on to what's wrong

Take my hand
We'll float away
We'll travel light years away
We'll travel light years

When the world explodes
You'll be light years away from home
We all get cold if you're cold
If the world explodes
And you're not where you want to go

You're holding on to what's wrong
