It's too bad you don't know
It's too late to settle
How can you call me your friend
How dare you to pull me again

We'll waste some hours to trace the moon in the sky
tonight
So we go like we're both determined
Your perfume slowly poison out my mind
And I hope this won't end
There's no reason to stop these infinite feelings racing towards you

We'll watch the stars tonight and we know where to find them
We'll catch some fireflies to illuminate our eyes

Your meaningful glimpse on me and your fascinating smile
Makes me feel your hiding something intimate I'll breathe here motionless with this intense outburst of emotions
Let's color our special connection and the value of what we have

Don't play on me Explosive thoughts we can't control
Every time we start to wonder everything Tell me frankly if you like me or not

Tonight
