Hold back the words you say in vain
Hope that you'll never say it again
Through broken pieces of picture frame
A line was drawn without an end
It's toward darkness that your mind
Was caught and deceived by cunning words
Beyond attention that your heart
Was longing for a sad goodbye

Don't look back to the past where you wanted to stay
Just one word from your mouth then you're out of the way
Don't close your eyes in neglecting your fault
Don't blind your sight while you're digging the past

This is the last time that we fall
You never know me anymore
I bathed in tears inside my room
Because of you I slowly drown
The broken pages that you've scattered's too hard
To knit back as whole
Now you're regretting those mistakes
You misinterpret unconsciously

Her heart was departed
Her lies was her weapon
The sky is weeping with sympathy
