(Miranda Lambert)

Maybe you're just jaded from some nobody's unforgotten words
Maybe you're just faded, a little gray from every time that you've been hurt
So you're lookin for your skin that you never did fit in You can't hide when you're turned inside out Love is looking for you now

Maybe you been burnin' but you can't blow out a flame that you can't find Maybe you've been thirsty but the rain just aint enough when you're this dry So you're runnin' from the water and the fire's getting hotter
I think you better find some lever ground
Love is lookin' for you now
Love is lookin' for you now

Maybe you been wearing the shoes that someone else is wearing now

Maybe you've been swearing forever might have already run out
You can't love yourself at the expense of someone else
You can't hide a liar from the truth
Love is lookin' for you
Love is lookin' for you

I've been looking for you Baby I've been lookin' for you
I've been looking for you
