It's been a long time coming and you can't stop
It's been a long time coming and you can't stop
And you want to get out but you can't
Not this time

You think of all the neat leaflets you read
When you were younger and still innocent
And you want to get out but you can't
Not now

Will the world seem different?
How do you tell your friends?
"I am not a virgin"?

Not a virgin now
And to think, you thought it would all make sense
But all you feel is mixed-up
For such a big thing there's little satisfaction
A long time waiting for not much action
He wanted to get out as quick as he could

Whatever joy the future brings, he's there
He'll always have his fingers in your hair
Say it: "I am not a virgin"

Not a virgin now
And to think, you thought it would all make sense
But all you feel is let down
You want to get out?
You want to get out? You still can.

I am not a virgin
