"Single Night"

This is not a single night
A space between two guiding lights
This is not a good old time
Where younger days still brightly shine
This is not a simple night
Where angels sing by riversides
This is not an easy ride
A road that leads me through the night
I know what you want
I know who you are
I know where you want to be right now
I know where you go
I know how you know
I know why you beg the sky for snow
This is not a starry night
No lucid blinking in our eyes
This is not a milestone, no
No blessing to preserve our soul
This is the most exciting night
But I don't know it yet
I was just asking for a light
Someone saw the lightning strike
Clear and absolute
As if someone had to die tonight
I know what you want
I know who you are
I know where you want to be right now
I know where you go
I know how you know
I know why you beg the sky for snow
I know what you want
I know who you are
I know where you want to be right now
I know where you go
I know how you know
I know why you beg the sky for snow
