The Traveller: This way, we must cross this ocean! We
Have to traverse these seas.

His Companions: But it waits for us?

The Traveller: It waits for me... and me alone.

His Companions: Yet it went beneath those waves...

Waiting!

The Traveller: My friends, we have the encroaching
night,

Or the sea.

Your journey is across the waves as is mine.

We must find the place the sun never leaves, away
from

The shadows, the haunted nights.

His Companions: Then now we must depart.

The Traveller: Ah my fate is sealed.

In timelessness you'll know me and we'll be as one.

We'll cast off from these cursed lands I hope you'll

Reach the place the sun never leaves.
