You betray
It's okay
There's something in my drink and it takes the pain
away
You're in red
And your in my head
Time is twisted and those dreams we had are now dead
My friend
Like centuries
A satellite I've caught, I got it when it dropped from the
Trees in the park
All alone after dark
There's not a single light but my heart it makes little spark

Everyone
I know says you're a fking rockstar
Everyone
Says you're walking the edge
Everyone
Says you've got diamonds in your hair
But everyone
Knows that you don't care

Portraits of night
Hanging in the light
It this a mirage or just another unrequested sight
Into our past
And all that doesn't last
I think often times people's lives drift by to fast
So they wait
To slow it all down
Instead they feel they are flying when they're flat on the ground
And so they roll
They rock and roll
They say we're all equal but there's no need to be nice about it now

Everyone

I know says you're a fking rockstar
Everyone
Says you're walking the edge
Everyone
Says you've got diamonds in your hair
But everyone
Knows that you don't care

I bring to close
This month and all the snow
Perhaps I'll come again; perhaps I'll choose to play another show
You never know
It's so hard to know
Do you feel me in your bones when you feel the north wind blow?
I'm all untied
And so unified
Is it justified to decide to hide inside my mind?
And forget
All of these regrets
All the liquor, pills, and broken cigarettes

Everyone
I know says you're a fking rockstar
Everyone
Says you're walking the edge
Everyone
Says you've got diamonds in your hair
But everyone
Knows that you don't care

Everyone
I know says you're a fking rockstar
Everyone
Says you're walking the edge
Everyone
Says you've got diamonds in your hair
But everyone
Knows that you don't care

Everyone
I know says you're a fking rockstar
Everyone
Says you're walking the edge
Everyone
Says you've got diamonds in your hair
But everyone
Knows that you don't care
