I don't have a clue what's in store this evening.
Waking up just to do the same old thing
Have you ever felt that every minute was closing in
And you don't know why, just take the time and I'll let You in.

'Cause every moment's passing by if you look real hard
And try
There's a feeling that we get we can't describe.
It lifts you up when you are down and we notice you
Around
Put a smile upon your face, don't let me down
Cause don't you know that I will be there

Always watching you, now I'm always watching you, I can
Always count on you.
For once in your life, everything just feels so fine
Today.

The day is fine, and you're mine
Let's take a ride all around the eastside.
What ever happened to the little girl I know,
Letting her hair down telling me now where to go
I think I left her dancing up and down the road.

'Cause every moment's passing by if you look real hard
And try
There's a feeling that we get we can't describe.
It lifts you up when you are down and we notice you
Around
Put a smile upon your face, don't let me down
Cause don't you know that I will be there

Always watching you, now I'm always watching you, I can
Always count on you.
For once in your life, everything just feels so fine...

How did we get this far
Take a little chance I know it's gonna be alright

Make it up
Take it up
Let's fly away
But how long will it take.
I know that we're gonna see it

Cause don't you know that I will be there

Always watching you, now I'm always watching you, I can
Always count on you.
For once in your life, everything just feels so fine
Today...
