Just as long as we are here, standing tall for one more year

Sing out loud and keep away the cold

When you're blind and you can't see

Realize it's them, not me

I might be hard to find, you know it happens everytime

When I'm tired I crawl, I can't stand to see you fall

And the years they don't treat you like they used to

When you're wide and I'm awake

I got time enough for days Take a-want you want

It just might set you free, not me ...

Oh no way, I've been up for a thousand days

But you can cut me down when I'm old and gray

And if you catch me on the move, you can come along

Or you can disapprove

I might be hard to find, you know it happens every time

When I'm tired, I crawl, I can't stand to see you fall

And the years they don't treat you like they used to

When you're wide and I'm awake

I got time enough for days take a-want you want

It just might set you free and not me...

Does it feel the same

When I'm tired I crawl like the savior in us all

But I don't mind it's somethin' that I'm used to

And when it's time to go, I just thought I'd let you know

Farewell this time, you're always on my mind

When I'm tired I crawl, it's a shame to see you fall

And the years they don't treat you like they used to

But when you're wide and I'm awake

Baby, I got enough damn time for a million days

Take a-want you want and it just might set you free....

When you're up you roam, it's a shame to see you go

And the years they don't treat you like they used to

Just as every light you see might be the one that sets

you free

Keep on rising like the ones you used to know, let's go.....
