There are moments I remember
Though they're hazy in mind
When the California sun was shinin'
And I saw you for the first time
And I felt I heard the morning sing
And I felt the warmth that love can bring
And I'd love to live those moments once again

California on my mind
I remember you and the sunshine
And the love you gave me
California one more time
California on my mind

I remember days of sunshine
When we spoke without a word
There was something in your eyes that sang
The sweetest song I'd ever heard
But now a memory's all that I can hold
New York's lonely, New York's cold
And I can't go on without you
No there's nothing left to find
