All the lazy dykes, cross armed at the palms Then legs astride their bikes, indigo burns on their arms
One sweet day, an emotional whirl, you will be good to yourself
And you'll come and join the girls

All the lazy dykes, they pity how you live Just somebody's wife, you give, and you give And you give and you give, give and you give And one sweet day, an emotional whirl, you will be good to yourself
And you'll come and join the girls

Touch me, squeeze me, hold me too tightly
And when you look at me you actually see me

And I've never felt so alive, in the whole of my life
In the whole of my life

Free yourself, be yourself, come to the palms and see
yourself
And at last your life begins, at last your life begins
At last your life begins, at last your life begins
