"If I Survive"

Man has destroyed all in his way--he has no remorse, he will have his day--forgotten by many, lost to some-- in an age where Brother betrays brother--animal instincts are alive--it has taught us to survive--faceless to some, a number to the many--for he Hates, what he's created--the thought are ageless--an eye for an eye, a man for a man--in an age where brother betrays Brother--animal instincts are alive--it has taught is to survive--faceless to some, a number to the many--as i try and escape the Rage within, the rage within--try and turn back the hands of time--the world in which he has made, made him--it has turned back Into a race against time.
