Deep within secluded laboratories, minds driven insane. Sights resemble that Of macabre slaughterhouses, subjected to sickening experimentations. Testing Their thresholds of pain, deprived of muscle growth, caged, surgically Deafened, infested, shackled and vivisected, crippled from infection, Suffering depression physically exhausted. All for pointless research. Blood Discharging from blinded eyes. Improper autopsies on half dead specimens, Waiting to soon become corpses. Still trembling from electro shock. Choked
By the noxious fumes in inhalation chambers, viciously burned alive, Inhaling jet fuel vapors. Blast injuries, ruptured eardrums bleeding Expulsion of gastric contents through their mouths dehydrated, deceased, Deformed, eradicated born of filth. Raised in misery.
Blood, feces, urine And vomit, the odors fill the air the terrified shrieks of agony, the Gagging, the retching. Science gone insane...
