show me your ways.
teach me to love.
this world can be so cold
it's hard to find one who cares.

show me your there.
show me you care.
wipe my tears away.
take my pain.

i just want to take this time to let you know that no matter what your going through in this life.
that jesus christ is always there hes always there to stand by your side.
hes a friend that will never walk away hes a father that will never turn his back.

i just want to encourage you right now no matter what your situation is to reach your arms up and call on him he'll always be there.
all he wants is your attention
and for you to love him back.

he needs us
just as we need him.
