As we're like two lovers all death
we reached the promised land, and in darkness we join Our progeny, spawned by the night, with us with fight in the war against the light

My black soul cries, then it slowly dies
All the visions in my eyes, suddenly flies away
As dawn appears we have to hide or get burned like in the most sung fires A mortal's blood we require to survive, to carry on without the pain of the hunger

I love it when you please me, when your blood drains free,
just for me...
