The continental United States
Despite it's size cannot separate
All these things the way they are
Then one day we'll all go far

And the coastline's saying hello
And the Midwest's letting her go
To a place she used to call home

Peninsulas and the five great lakes
The (616) sure appreciates
All these things the way they are
Then one day we'll all be stars.

And the coastline's saying hello
And the Midwest's letting her go
To a place she used to call home
