Now we're folding under the roll of apathetic thunder
As it hurries us to stay
We watch the world grow darker
Sit in church and wonder if god could be so cruel

Maybe God's not listening, or maybe I'm the one to blame

Looking back we ponder
Remember how our hearts would wander
As the world moves in reverse
All the people on this planet aren't begging for an answer
We all need to be heard

Maybe God's not listening
Maybe god just likes to be a little undercover
To teach us all to love each other
'Cause all we want's to just be heard
To feel as though we're understood

God, I'll try to do my part, keep on breaking down my heart.
