"Now And Again"

Everyday those little things they start to bury me
In everyway I crack when someone mentions quality If things don't change then change must come from someone else I guess
So let me begin, by say'n I'll end up like the rest

Everyday those little things won't move just one degree
I can't explain it all though so I just go on suffering Don't you think the way that I think is the way we should?
I do believe there's something better, today

Hey, stay, far away
Don't play, games, I've seen it all
Don't say, hey, we've all been guilty
Every now and again

Day by day now little things don't seem to bother me Ever since that what's her face had walked away I'm free
There's something to be said for saying anything you want
Every now and again, I say

Hey, stay, far away
Don't play, games, I've seen it all
Don't say, hey, we've all been guilty
Every now and again

There's something to be said for saying anything you
want
I do believe there's something better, today

Hey, stay, far away
Don't play, games, I've seen it all
Don't say, hey, we've all been guilty
Every now and again

Hey, stay, far away
Don't play, games, I've seen it all
Don't say, hey, we've all been guilty

Every now and again
Every now and again
Every now and again
Every now and again
