Suppose this life was made for dying
We're all just living for today
If I speak then what's the point of anything I say
And if there's no truths
Then it's a beautiful lie
But I've seen proof
And it's a beautiful life

You feel so far away tonight
Past the horizon, you appear just out of sight
You feel so far way tonight
I can see you in the distance
You're oblivious and you're fading into the night

I would show you a thousand times
And I'd give my life for fear of losing you
And just for you if you take my hand
You'll see that the scars run deeper than you'll ever understand

You feel so far away tonight
Past the horizon, you appear just out of sight
You feel so far way tonight
I can see you in the distance
You're oblivious and you're fading into the night

You found a way to hide your light
You've hidden away out of sight
So stop right now or you just might Begin to fade into the night.
