

My Epic "Deathbed"

I've been sleeping sounder than I've ever slept before. I keep smiling and Dancing like a fool around the floor., I've been dragging each beast from Under my bed and I laugh them to death then lay down my head, 'cause I Don't fear the darkness anymore.

Someday when You come bringing down the sky the whole earth will be exposed Before Your light, and there will never again be darkness when Your will is Done.

I don't fear old men on their deathbeds waiting for the end to take them.
Because their short arms and shorter breaths are not equipped to back their Threats so I ignore them. In the same way, I don't fear the darkness Anymore.

Someday when You come bringing down the sky the whole earth will be exposed
Before Your light and there will never again be darkness when Your will is Done.

But Lord, if Your already stand outside of time and keep the corners of the Universe aligned then I've nothing to fear because You're already here and Your kingdom's come. Dawn breaks but you won't find a piece. Light chases Night away but you'll never see it flee... the darkness has no substance of It's own. Oh, the true light has shown and we're already home.
