..And the night falls once again,
I light the candles...
And as I look out the windows,
The silence and the darkness fill my heart with sorrow.
My body feels, so tired now,
And I hear her voice fading away.. .
The breeze and the cold rain...
And then I could hear a child cry from miles away.
I watch the moon and write about the past,
The tulips in the garden are so sad,
Like a lonely bird I watch the night going by,
And I think of when your light would shine so bright,
About the child that once was mine,
And about the flowers that now have died.
