You keep pushing me down
Though you've breathed what I've done
Understand this won't last
This time you've gone too far

You spit words like a whip
Full of glass and steel shards
Understand this won't last
A greater fire will fall

I have lost all my patience for your games

Can't you see my blood is wearing thin?
It won't be long, till you finally break me
Can't you see my blood is wearing thin?
It won't be long, till you finally break me down

With boots to my ribcage
With metaphorical shots
You drench me in kerosene
Throw in a match to light up your night

There are demons at play
There are selfish sad ways
You are part of the dark
He will take care of you

I have lost all my patience for your games
I have lost all my patience for your games

Can't you see my blood is wearing thin?
It won't be long, till you finally break me
Can't you see my blood is wearing thin?
It won't be long, till you finally break me

Can't you see my blood
It won't be long, till you finally break me
Can't you see my blood
It won't be long, till you finally break me down
