Taking over me now

There are many different stories to be heard
There are many different people living in this world
But behind my eyes there lives a dream
I see your face at my door
Every time I know I need nothing more

I'll follow you
With every step
I will follow you with each breath
That I'll take
See my eyes you're taking me
You're taking over me

Some are pushing themselves hard not knowing why
Some are wandering around and living in a lie
But behind their doubtful mind I see
They're trying to find the key

And I used to be like that not anymore
I have finally reached my turning point
'cause behind your eyes I saw myself
So different from what I knew
Saw myself that i could be all to you

Taking over me now
