There she walks alone
To that open road
Looking for a way to change her life
I know
Maybe she's a dreamer
Or maybe she'll find love along the way

Fighting to believe in love
Even though some days are tough
But she knows, the best is yet to come
She can make it to that place

Where she belongs
She will try and find her way
To carry on
Every now and then
She'll be that strong
A place to call her own
Where she belongs

Who can say tomorrow
Is just another day
But life's about to turn the other way
Everytime a star is bright
She prays upon the morning light
You never know what comes along the way

Fighting to believe in love
Even though some days are tough
But she knows, the best is yet to come
She can make it to that place

Where she belongs
She will try and find her way
To carry on
Every now and then
She'll be that strong

A place to call her own
Where she belongs

Strolling down the open road
Looking for a place to go
Love will come and find a way
She won't give up
Time will tell you
Time will show
Listen to your heart and soul
Trust in me and believe me when I say

There she belongs
She will try and find a way
To carry on
Every now and then
She'll be that strong

She can make it to that place
She can be that strong
There she walks alone
To that open road
