Cry, cry, cry baby, cry baby, cry baby,
Welcome back home,

I know she told you,
I know she told you that she loved you,
Much more, than I did,
But honey I know she told you,
She was gonna leave you,
And you swear, you just don't know why,
A likely story,
But if you need me,
I might be somewhere around,
But you got to do one thing for me,
You got to, get down on your knees and,

Cry, cry, cry baby,
Cry baby, cry baby,
Daddy welcome back home,

Don't you know, oh,
Honey don't you know ain't nobody ever gonna love
you,
The way, the way I do,
Uh uh baby,
And nobody ever gonna take, all your pain,
And your mess, and your heartache too, uh uh,
But if you ever need me,
I'll be somewhere around,
Waiting in the wings baby,
But you got to do one thing for me,
You got to get down on your knees and,

Cry, cry, cry baby,
Cry baby, cry baby,

Oh daddy, like you used to do,

That's how I should've treated you in the first place,

When you walking down the road,
Looking for something to do with your life,
You're gonna find out later baby,

That the road don't end in uh, Detroit,
You might find out, later, later, later baby,
That the road don't end in Hollywood,
Oh, you might find out a little bit, later, later, later, later baby,
Looking for something to do with your little bitty life, ah
Oh, honey, honey, honey,
You ain't never gonna find no woman like me waiting for you right there no, no, no, no, no, no,
Cause I'm the only doctor,
I'm the only doctor that got the medication that you need baby,
Whoa, I don't need no prescriptions, I already got my prescription,
Yeah, I've take pain and your ills and your thrills, Whoa, You know something, I know you got more tears to shed,
So come on, don't be shy,
Just come to my door,
And get down on your knees and,
Make him do it baby,

Cry, cry, cry, cry baby,
Cry baby, cry baby,
Cry, cry, cry, cry,

Baby, oh oh, whoa yeah
