This one goes out to you and
You got here just a second too late
To save yourself from this now
And I hope that you know that You're not getting back this time
So why not leave like you always do?

Just put a sock in it because
No one can even hear you now that You're not making any sense.
Just the same "I'm sorry" stories
And "I'm sick of..." lullabies, well
It's your turn to write the chorus
Or at least inspire it

You thought I wouldn't know better?
But the jokes on you this time
You should've known better
But I guess you're happy with
The biggest mistake of your life

Here's chapter two of our story
And this one's gonna leave a mark if
You don't wake up now
Open eyes see what you've done to me
Look at the mess you left behind you
It's your job to clean it up.

This is no job for shovels
This is a job for hearts and
You'll have a hard time
Cause these "I'm sorry" stories and
"I'm sick of..." lullabies tell me
Your heart's somewhere else.

You thought I wouldn't know better?
But the jokes on you this time
You should've known better
But I guess you're happy with
The biggest mistake of your life

Your life
Your life
Your life

You thought I wouldn't know better?
You should've known better
I thought you would've known better
You should've known better

You thought I wouldn't know better?
But the jokes on you this time
You should've known better
But I guess you're happy with
But I guess you're happy with (Oh)
But I guess you're happy with
The biggest mistake of your life
