My knowledge and logic fills my mind with fear thoughtless exploitation the deadline draws near...

I behold the desolation before my eyes evolution's denaturalization the black rain falling from the skies my mind's visions our verdict of posterity the presage of evil obscured thoughts of what shall be

Extinction...

We leave this place to pass it on
in years to come
will all be done?

The home of life
we consume
man's ignorance will seal his doom...

Darkness engraved my mind thoughts pass through my head visions of ravaged landscapes where the living are outnumbered by the dead a place ridden with diseases where forest rivers glow animal moribund species still the seeds of death we sow

In years to come

My reflections are odious when thinking about the daily regression we're approaching our terminus as we proceed with our contamination we defile our soul

with the knowledge of what awaits this mortal coil is all too late?
