injected dreams and overgrown passions turn unity to selfishness and physical reaction before we understand the one the two become wondering eyes cut the ties and leave each other numb

(chorus)
modern love, completely empty spirit of the age, lust dependency i will look to no one but you this committment will see us through awakened by your tears, now i see my history moved only by fear forged in anger to refuse and resist is our decision break this miserable repetition

(chorus)
is there any link between who i am and what i think i deserve? what love have i ever given worth the pain of living with me?

the easiest ways are the deadest ends reject the pattern, fight, defend i'm done with this lie of cheap seperation i spit in the face of your selfish system

(chorus)
