Title : Coldwater morning

One, knowing I'm one, hearing of two,
And like a child believing dreams,
Always a dream to take you home.

Day, after the day, there comes the night,
There comes the knowing when you laugh.
If you should laugh, the night alone will hear,
And the night don't care.

Coldwater morning,
Take off your nighttime shoes.
Coldwater morning,
I been waiting so long for you.

One, knowing I'm one, hearing of two,
Hearing of things that I once had,
That you once had.
And when the night would come
We'd sleep like one.

Coldwater morning,
Take off your nighttime shoes.
Coldwater morning,
I been waiting so long for you.

I been waiting so long for you.
