Good morning. I love you. Now that you're here where you belong, I want to be the man you need. Just tell me you love me, because I need to hear it, too. Just let me be the one you carry deep inside of you.

I need you beside me; the road is so long. You run through my heart like the words of a bitter-sweet song. I'd travel the whole world, across the earth, around the sun if I could be the one you carry deep inside of you.

Without you beside me, the road is so long. You live in my heart, and it hurts when I think of you gone. I need you in my way. I have no right to love so true. But let me be the one, the one who lives inside of you. Just let me be the one you carry deep inside of you.
